DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The Related Applications section has to be updated to reflect the parent applications that have now been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 2, 5-6, 24-29, and 33-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Botts et al. (5,453,098). Botts discloses a medical device for retaining an end of a tube comprising a base (12) for receiving the tube, the base comprising a first locking base feature (28) and a first tab (14) movable with respect to the base for compressing the tube, the first tab comprising a first locking tab feature (30), wherein the locking tab feature is engageable with the locking base feature to hold the first tab in a fixed position with respect to the base, wherein the locking base feature comprises a locking opening (23) in said base, the locking tab feature comprises a locking member extending from the first tab with the locking member being engageable with the locking opening, wherein the first tab comprises a first tube compression member (15,20) and when the locking tab is engaged with the locking feature, the first compression member comes in contact with the tube (Figure 6), and further comprising a stem (16) with a tubular bottom portion and a positioning member.

Claims 2-6 and 34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Andrew (3,760,811). Andrew discloses a medical device for retaining an end of a tube comprising a base (3) for receiving the tube, the base comprising a first locking base feature (22,23) and a first tab (2) movable with respect to the base for compressing the tube, the first tab comprising a first locking tab feature (20,21), wherein the locking tab feature is engageable with the locking base feature to hold the first tab in a fixed position with respect to the base, wherein the first locking base feature comprises a first plurality of teeth (22,23) and the plurality of teeth on the base are engageable with the first locking tab feature, wherein the first locking tab feature comprises a plurality of teeth (20,21) on the tab, wherein the base comprises a locking opening and locking member, and wherein the first tab comprises a compression member (7).

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 2-6, 11-15, 24-29, and 31-34 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-15 of U.S. Patent No. 6,676,640. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the slight differences between the claims do not break the threshold of patentability.

Claims 2-6, 11-15, 24-29, and 31-34 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-32 of U.S. Patent No. 6,287,281. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the slight differences between the claims do not break the threshold of patentability.
